MONROE DOCTRINE.

England's Aggressions Will be Resisted by Secretary Gresham.

Washington, March 27.—It would seem strange if some of the complications between the United States and other countries now pending did not lead to more serious results than are at present anticipated. There has hardly been a time in the past twenty years when the country's foreign relations have been so complicated as now.

The point has been reached, so it would seem, when the dust must be wiped off the old Monroe doctrine, or else that doctrine must be abandoned. If the administration carries out its policy with the vigor which characterized its declaration to the outset, and there is every reason to believe that it will, the anxiety which attends the dramatic Alliance episode will sink into insignificance by the side of more serious complications with Great Britain. The situation resulting from this last affair is viewed with some alarm by the State Department. For it England insists upon its claims in Nicaragua, or upon its encroachment upon the disputed Venezuelan territory, the United States must declare once and for all if the Monroe doctrine is to be upheld, and by force if necessary.

England's ultimatum to the Nicaraguan government is regarded here as grossly unjust and the provisions that bars the American citizen from the commission as a denial of the right of this country to protect the interests of the South American republics against foreign aggressions. It is not at all improbable that England may attempt the same game in Nicaragua and Venezuela that it did in Egypt when it undertook to compel the payment of claims by an occupation of territory. Such an occupation upon American soil would be a violation of the Monroe doctrine and would also form an immediate interference from this country.

Vigorous diplomatic correspondence between Secretary Gresham and the Court of St. James has already begun. If England does not show the disposition to treat fairly on a basis of compromise, then President Cleveland will notify the British Government that any attempt to drive Venezuela forcibly from its territory will be regarded by the United States as coming within the scope of the Monroe doctrine.

The situation is further complicated by France's demand upon Venezuela. At the same time Germany is taking steps to make a naval display in Venezuelan waters to secure claims to its citizens. All this is making a great diplomat of Mr. Gresham. Diplomacy is rampant in Washington, just now. The Secretary of State does not want too many complications on his hands if he has to treat with England, and he is therefore using great finesse to keep France from pushing her claims just at this time. Minister Breckinridge has been instructed to appeal to our old ally, Russia, to interfere for Venezuela to France, and also to use her good offices with Germany.

These complications with England are more serious than imagined, just now. But their full importance is thoroughly recognized by the administration. There is a feeling of suppressed excitement pervading official circles here, for there is no telling at what minute this government may be called upon to resent forcibly an insult or to declare its intention to enforce by arms the Monroe policy. In the meantime Mr. Cleveland sits unmoved by the excitement which torments others so, viewing with calm judgment the trend of affairs, but ready at a moment's notice to uphold the traditions of this country and the dignity of its flag.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

Magnitude and Cost of Social Entertainments.

Special to the Press.

Social entertainments in Washington are perhaps on a larger scale than similar events in other cities where people of wealth have their homes. It may be said that the ostentatious display of wealth in this direction is not so common as elsewhere. Society at the National Capital is cosmopolitan, and it is impossible to apply strictly the standard of money. There are many persons whose official position entitles them to social recognition who have only moderate incomes. They mingle on equal terms with those who are favored with a greater share of the world's goods, and also do their part in entertaining.

Now that Lent is here, and the rapid pace which society maintained during the season has somewhat abated, an opportunity is given to look back over the past. No doubt in many cases an estimate is made of what it costs to take a prominent part in the life of society. A great deal of money has been spent, and while it is customary to say that the past season has exceeded all others in point of elaborateness and display, yet such a statement is hardly correct. It appears that whatever may be the condition of the money market, or which ever party is in power, society at the capital pursues its way without any change. There are always some people who spend a good deal of money, and if for any reason they have not the same aspirations next year, there is always some one comes to fill their places.

While those who entertain most extensively would not care to have a mere money estimate placed upon their hospitality, still this feature makes a very convenient method of classification. At the head of the list, perhaps, stands senator Bruce, or rather Mrs. Bruce. They occupy one of the largest private residences in the city, and during the past winter they have given one entertainment after another. In addition to providing elaborate refreshments and costly floral decorations, Mrs. Bruce has secured the services of some of the most noted musicians, who have sung and played to furnish an evening's pleasure for her guests. They have, of course, been liberally compensated, and it is within the bounds of a moderate estimate to say that one such a musicale has cost the hostess the fine sum of one thousand dollars.

The widow of the late Mr. Hearst, the millionaire Senator from California, gave perhaps the most costly single entertainment of the season in the form of a Louis XVI reception. On this occasion the servants were liveries of that period, the guests were appropriately gowned, and the famous orchestra leader, Seidl, with his musicians all dressed in the costumes of the period, furnished the musical programme for the evening. To secure the latter feature Mrs. Hearst must have paid a very extravagant sum of money.

The wife of the inventor of the air brake, Mrs. Westinghouse, occupied a suite of apartments at one of the leading hotels here, and each week she gave a tea or an afternoon reception, which became the talk of the town on account of the profuse display of costly flowers. American beauty roses, which cost then a dollar apiece, were lavishly used, while the orchids and other rare flowers were massed on the tables and on the lamp stands.

There is a wide range in the scale of social entertainments, and while such lavish expenditures of money as above noted did not mark all the entertainments, still there were numerous receptions given which easily cost the entertainer four or five hundred dollars. It is possible, however, to be in society and not spend so much money, and perhaps quite as much enjoyment is derived both by the host and the guests, when the flowers and music and refreshments do not represent such a large outlay of money. All this however is not regarded as extravagance by those who can afford it. It puts money into circulation and helps business. As a trade promoter it has no small influence, and perhaps the only criticism that can be made is that some people that have not means are tempted by ambition to try to entertain on the same scale of magnificence.

THE BEST ROUTE.

A Survey of the Marion and Golconda Railroad.

HAMPTON, Ky., March 12, '95.

EDITOR PRESS: In the Crittenden Press of February 14th, we see an article written by a citizen of Golconda who on request of the "railroad magnates" as to what he thought was the best route from Golconda to Marion, told them by way of Rhodes' Landing, Carversville, Lela, Salem, Levia and on to Marion. He says he "responded quickly." No doubt the gentleman's answer would have been different if he had taken time to think calmly and deliberately on the subject, or had possessed a more accurate knowledge of the geography of the country between the two places.

He is evidently mistaken in regard to deep water at Rhodes' Landing, for we are informed by a reliable man who lived in the neighborhood of the landing for a number of years, that a large sandbar at that place would prevent all transferring during low water. How he would construct his railroad from Lela to Salem is a question we would like to have answered. Now we have in mind another route on which we think a road could be constructed with less expense, to wit, By way of Compton's Landing, down the river to the Frank Davis spring; thence up Bayou creek to Raspberry; thence up Raspberry to Hampton. A road could be built to the last named place with very little cutting.

Between Hampton and Sandy creek which drains Salem valley, there would be no small cuts, thence up Sandy creek to Salem, on to Levia, Sulphur Springs and Marion.

This is the route we would suggest as cheapest and best for the railroad company. It passes through the territorial center, the agricultural center and stock raising center of the country and for this reason we believe the citizens would donate more liberally for the construction of a road along this line than along the one proposed by our unknown friend in the Press.

IS STONE IN?

Friends Say the Ex-Congressman Will Make the Race for Governor.

HENDERSON, Ky., March 21.—Ex-Congressman Stone was in Henderson today and left for his home at Kuttawa this afternoon. Friends with whom he was in conference say that he had decided to make the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor. He had been looking over the field for some time, and had finally decided to become a candidate. They say he stated that he would begin his canvass at once, and that he would make a fight to win. Mr. Stone left Henderson before his friends gave out the announcement, and as he will not get to his home before morning, no direct statement from him could be procured.

Kuttawa, March 22.—Ex-Congressman Stone said tonight: "I have not announced myself a candidate for governor. Solicitations by letter and personal pledges of support have been more numerous than ever before, and far more than I ever anticipated."

Some pledges of support have gone so far as to assure me that the delegates from several counties would be instructed to vote for me whether I became a candidate or not. I have been disposed to establish the race made up, but under the present political condition in the State I feel that it is the duty of the Democracy to select as their candidate for Governor whomever in their judgment is best suited for the position, regardless of the ambition or candidacy of any one."

TO SAVE HIS LIFE

Murderer Hays Hurried Away From Hopkinsville to Eddyville.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 21.—Peter Hays, who was sentenced to the penitentiary for life yesterday, for the murder of W. B. Lyle, was removed from jail here to the penitentiary at Eddyville last night. It was feared that the friends of Lyle, who swore to have his slayer's life, would make an attempt to take Hays from jail and lynch him. They are greatly incensed over the verdict, and Hays, who had lived in terror of a mob ever since his arrest, begged to be taken to the penitentiary for safety.

VERDICT UNSATISFACTORY.

The Acquittal of Henry Delaney Does Not Meet With Approval.

MORGANFIELD, Ky., March 21.—There is considerable dissatisfaction and not a little feeling in Morganfield over the acquittal of Henry Delaney, one of the participants in the Oliver-Delaney tragedy. The Commonwealth seemed to have proved by six witnesses that a conspiracy existed, and while the evidence as to the murder of the young bride was circumstantial, the defendant was contradicted by several witnesses. The people here think the county has already received a bad enough name through the tragedy, and the acquittal of the man thought by all to be the principal has served to make them more concerned as to the county's welfare.

It Is Now Evangelist Boyd.

Rheyl Boyd, of Paducah, has actually begun his work as a minister of the gospel. The Paducah news says:

"A number of Paducah people took advantage of the cheap rates and went to Fulton yesterday to hear Rheyl Boyd make his initial effort as an evangelist. Those who have heard Mr. Boyd make his eloquent speeches in court and other places expected to hear a good talk, but they were not prepared for the plain, simple appeal, clothed in words spoken from a sincere heart, that fell upon their listening ears. Mr. Boyd spoke for an hour and a half, and there were none who grew tired or desired the speaker to end. Everywhere in the congregation the most intense interest was displayed, and when he had finished illustration after illustration, not a sound could be heard except the usual cheering amen of sympathetic church workers. At the conclusion many came forward and professed Christ, while twenty or more came forward for prayer and fully two hundred gave the speaker their hand and promised more consistent christian lives. The night was indeed a remarkable one, and showed to its fullest the magnetism and power of the speaker."

The Monkey and the Parrot.

To see the monkey in the man you have only to study the faces, bodies, and habits of the baby. Such is the theme of a very interesting article contributed by Mr. S. S. Buckman to the new number of the Nineteenth Century. The acts of children are he says like "ancient monuments of prehistoric times. The human infant is an interesting object of scientific research, and even a cross baby should be calmly contemplated by the philosophical mind." The Westminster Gazette publishes a dozen of the numerous illustrations which Mr. Buckman gives to show how survivors of our simian ancestry may be found by any nursery philosopher.

1. Monkeys are snub nosed (simian); so are babies.

2. Babies have punch-like cheeks. To judge from ecclesiastical monuments this characteristic is supposed to be specially anglican. It is really monkey like. Baby cheeks are the vestiges of cheek pouches, possessed for storing away food, as in Cercopithecus, a monkey in which this habit of storing may be observed at the zoological gardens, it is vitiously felt.

3. At the base of the vertebral column babies have a deep circular depression. This is the mark of the monkey's tail. 4. Babies as Dr. Louis Robinson has shown have a superior arm power and very short legs. So have monkeys.

5. Babies in catching hold of any thing don't use the thumb, but clasp it between the fingers and palm. This is the action of monkeys in going from branch to branch.

6. A baby can move any of its toes independently, and it can move them one from another, so as to make a V between any of them. As it grows older it loses this power, and also the power of turning its ankle; but that it has such power over its muscles when young, points to ancestors who used their feet more than their hands as organs for picking up small objects and relied on arms and hands for supporting their bodies.

7. Babies go to sleep on their stomachs, with their limbs curled up under them—a survival from our four-footed ancestors.

8. Babies are rocked to sleep, an imitation of the swaying to and fro of the branches where our monkey ancestors lived. Even our nursery ditties ("Lullaby" baby on the tree top) point back to arboreal ages.

9. The staid climbing instinct of babies, like the tree-climbing propen-

The Wets Win.

Saturday the town of Blackford voted on the prohibition measure, and by a vote of 38 to 18 the liquor side won. The town had been under prohibition for a long time, and of course the wets are rejoicing. After April 15 there will be as many as two saloons in the town. The town tax on saloon license is $300. It is said that the money for two has already been deposited, and two other persons are contemplating similar steps.

Crue Gets the Prize.

Mr. A. C. Crue, formerly of this county, has been appointed United States District Attorney for the Southern District of Indian Territory. The office pays $5,000 or $6,000 a year. The appointment is a splendid one. Mr. Crue is in every respect capable, and there is no wrier man in the West. While the Press congratulates Mr. Crue, it also congratulates the President upon his choice.

Quarantined.

Immediately after the report of smallpox at Princeton reached Marion, the Town Trustees took such steps as they could to prevent its teaching here. Quarantine was declared against all suspects, and the police force set on watch, but the Trustees are so handicapped that but little can be done. Not more than half of Marion is within the corporate limits, the Trustees have no supervision whatever over the outside, not even the depot is in town, hence the precautions are practically worthless. If the town limits were strictly observed, but such will not be the case. Everything will be done to protect the community, town limits or no town limits. On account of some complications we have no local board of health, a body which has more power to protect the community than any other force, the Town Trustees Tuesday telegraphed the Secretary of the State Board, asking the appointment of a board, and doubtless the request will meet with a response.

There is very little danger of the loathsome disease reaching here, but to neglect a single precautionary step would be criminal. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.
Of course there are people who are not afraid of smallpox, and had rather have it two or three times than to have a sour stomach, but in this country majorities rule, and the people of Marion by a large majority prefer "no smallpox in theirs," and they want the authorities to spend a little money, if necessary, to keep it away.

J. A. Daniel, of Lola, was in town yesterday.

Small Pox at Princeton.

Princeton, Ky., March 25.—Dr.
King called in to see a negro this afternoon and so soon as he opened the door he told the occupants that the negro had small pox. There were about twenty-five negroes in the room at the time and they went out in a hurry. The negro has been sick about a week but no physicians had been called in until this afternoon; but now three of our physicians pronounce it a well-developed case. How he contracted it, is not known. He stayed here from Cincinnati. The yellow flag has been stuck up and the house has been quarantined, but since he was taken sick there have been hundreds of negroes in the room, and it is thought the plague will be spread. The County Judge and Mayor have been consulting as to the best method of suppressing it so far as they can. The negroes in town seem scared to death. Developments are anxiously awaited.

Mr. Joseph Loving died at his home in Marion Tuesday night, after an illness of several weeks. His remains were taken to Madisonville Wednesday for burial.

Mr. Loving moved from Hopkins county to Marion a few years ago.
He was a good citizen, a most excellent old gentleman, and was liked by all who knew him. His quiet disposition, childlike simplicity, and moral uprightness was admired by the people of Marion.

A Repton citizen called to see us a day or two since, and requested us to say to the Cardinals young man and his friends that they might ground arms for the present. Just now Repton and vicinity is busy pitching a crop, and can't possibly make a hostile demonstration against Cardinals at this season of the year. Besides the sun is getting too warm for active military service, and life is too tempting anyhow to sacrifice blood just as fish begin to bite.

F. E. Robertson is fitting up his house near the depot for a grocery store, and next week he will put in a stock of goods. He has a cozy house for the business. In connection with the groceries he will continue the sale of "Old Hickory" by the quart.

Smallpox is in an adjoining county.
Everybody should vaccinate and nearly should re-vaccinate. Call at R. or J. H. Clark's office, where you can be vaccinated with pure vaccine virus, it will only cost you 50c.

J. B. Clark, H. Officer.

At Oakleyville church Sunday evening at 4 o'clock, Mr. Columbus McNeely and Mrs. Florence Young were united in marriage, Rev. W. R.
Gibbs officiating in his usual happy style. A large crowd of friends witnessed the event and extended congratulations.

Saturday two more of the liquor cases were in court. Joe Bourland was charged with giving Ed. Doss whisky, and Ed. was likewise charged with giving Joe a drink. The case against Bourland was dismissed and Doss was fined $50.

According to semi-official reports Lacey Worton will be the Third party candidate for the Legislature. It is said that he wants the empty honors and his party in Livingston county has recommended him.

Ben Wright got too much tea Monday, and had to be arrested and confined in jail. Tuesday morning, having duly sobered up, was tried and fined $10.00.

Wm. Boston, hunting on Sunday; failing to appear the jury fixed his punishment at $10.

The other cases on the docket for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, except Nov. 1024, 1025, 1069, 1086, were continued.

Wm. Henry Canada was declared a lunatic.

County Judge James A. Moore made application to the court for license to practice law, and attorneys L. H. James and J. W. Blue, Jr., were appointed to examine him.

COMMONWEALTH DOCKET.

MONDAY, MARCH 25.

Money Found.

We have the exclusive agency for the sale of the Tradewater Coal & Coke Company, at Sturgis, Ky., and will meet all competition prices, and will pay $50 to any charitable society designated by the county judge if on a strict test our coal does not prove as good as any in the market.

FREEDOM.

This is ground hog weather.

Bob Nesbet, Willie and Emmet Pritts are back with us again. They say they have not found a place they like so well as old Crittenden.

The good people of this neighborhood are trying to organize a Sunday School. Let the good work go on.

The farmers are taking advantage of the fine weather and are plowing for dear life.

Mrs. James Brown, who was down with a gripe, is up and around.

There was a social gathering at Mr. Woodsides' Friday night. It was a grand success.

MILLINERY.

I wish to say to all of my lady friends that they will find my millinery store one door South of the Marion Hotel where I will keep a small and well selected stock of millinery goods that I will keep a small and well selected stock of millinery goods that I will sell in accordance with the hard times. Come and see for yourselves. Prices, fashions and goods to suit you. Thanking you for past patronage, with a hope that you will give me your patronage, I remain, Mrs. LAURA HURLEY.

Millinery

Store!

IN SALEM.

I have just returned from market, where I spent two weeks, learning the styles and selecting a nice stock of Hats, Bonnets, Trimmings etc. I offer the ladies of Salem and surrounding country a stock of the newest and best goods, all of the late styles in everything. Trimming done to order. Prices very reasonable. I solicit the public patronage. Come and see my goods.

LAURA HURLEY.

Music

It don't take five years to learn to play a piece of music, neither does it take a year to learn to play several pieces; that is if you go to the right teacher. I will teach your children music for $1.00 per month, 6 lessons per week for the first week and 3 afterward, and if I don't learn them more and have them to understand the rules of music better and in less time than they have ever been taught in Marion, I will not charge you anything.

Come and see me about your girls and I will explain to you my method of teaching and how a girl ought to be taught to understand music.

Yours respectfully,
Mrs. Wm. Freeman.

Borders Wanted.

I have made arrangements to take boarders at the rate of $2.50 per week. Separate room for boarders.
For further information call on Carroll Hodge or P. B. Hodge, or at the residence of W. H. Crow, Prop'r.
